

Western Products named Top Workplace for the 10th consecutive year

For the 10th consecutive year, Western Products, a division of Douglas Dynamics LLC, has been recognized as a Top Workplace by the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel.

WESTERN is known for manufacturing innovative snow and ice removal equipment for contractors and homeowners alike, but the distinction of being a Milwaukee Top Workplace relies on much more than product. Workplaces are nominated by employees and judged solely on employee surveys administered by Energage, a CultureTech specialist company that provides workplace improvement insights from a employee-centric approach. According to the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel, “The program recognizes businesses and organizations in southeast Wisconsin that provide their employees with a great work environment, flexibility, advancement opportunities and other tools they need to succeed.”

Western Products offers a competitive salary, benefits, and employee-driven professional development, all of which factored into the award.

Western Products currently employs approximately 300 people in the Milwaukee area and is proud of having a culture that focuses on teamwork to get the job done. This winning attitude and work ethic have been cultivated over 65 years, and are exemplified by this recognition.
